

Selected for the "ASIA IP Elite 2023"

THE ASIA
IP ELITE

In June 2023, NTT was selected for the "Asia IP Elite 2023" by the international intellectual property media company IAM (headquartered in London, UK). This recognition honors companies and organizations that place intellectual property at the core of their business strategies in order to showcase representative efforts in intellectual property creation within the Asia-Pacific region. A total of 88 enterprises and organizations were selected this time, with 23 of them based in Japan.

NTT's selection is attributed to the fact that NTT Corporation is promoting patent filings for many optical-related technologies, in addition to the licensing activities for 5G standard-essential patents being advanced by Docomo, which were recognized as important factors. Docomo was also selected for the Asia IP Elite in fiscal year 2022.

Moving forward, Docomo will continue to cultivate its R&D technical capabilities and engage in research and development to forge the future of mobile communications that it envisions, while also advancing intellectual property activities that contribute to its business.
